

Notification – Renewing SST Cards

As an NYCDOB approved training provider, NextWave is fully prepared to provide the training and administrative support necessary to keep SST cardholders up to date with the renewal requirements as established by the NYCDOB.

General renewal requirements:

Workers will need to complete eight (8) hours of refresher training and Supervisors will need sixteen (16) hours of refresher training to renew their SST cards. Refresher training must be completed no more than one (1) year prior to the expiration of their current SST card. If not done in that time frame, the card cannot be "refreshed" or renewed.

There is no grace period. Do not let your SST card expire!

A note on your OSHA 30-Hour Construction Safety card:

As per the NYCDOB, it is not necessary for workers or supervisors to retake full OSHA training courses; the refresher training pathways fully meet the requirements for card renewals. Employer requirements may vary. Please be advised that should an OSHA certificate show as expired in Training Connect, the validity of the SST card is not affected.

Course Availability:

We strive to provide needed coursework in a timely manner. Please check the website at nextwavesafety.com/training for the calendar of upcoming classes. For private training requests, call us at 212-933-9071 or email at sst@nextwavesafety.com

New Card Issuance:

For a successful renewal, cardholders will need to obtain a new physical SST card. There will be a cost associated with the new card. New expiration dates to be set five (5) years from the date it is issued.

For questions, please call the office Monday-Friday 8:30 am and 5:00 pm to speak with one of our academy staff.
